Get your Motorbikes On with Yeehawk Getting your bike show ready is a fun task, which is one of the reasons we love getting bikes ready, especially for the local shows. So, before you take the road show to your next show, take some time to get your bikes looking good and working well and make sure your bike is set for the road show. These are a few things you need to do to get your show bike ready for the show and road trip. 1. Make sure your bike is in good condition and working perfectly. This includes checking valves, spark plugs, fuel, electrical system and exhaust. Turn the key and make sure it runs smoothly. 2. Have a good tune up and check the tires for wear. This is the perfect time to check the brake pads and hoses. 3. Make sure your gas tank and engine are full to the top. Check the tires and make sure they are free of potholes and nails. 4. Make sure your clutch is properly adjusted. 5. Do a search and see if there are any upgrades needed on your bike. If not, keep it simple and maybe add a show stand. 6. Get your bike out on the show floor and take a look at the bike show schedule for your show. 7. Get your bike ready to go and get the best part of the road trip. 8. Get some of the worries out of the way before you go. This includes any travel arrangements, food, and communications with the next show owner. With no signs of slowing down, Peter Garrett has just announced he will release an autobiography in 2011. The Australian musician has amassed a loyal cult-like following over a career that's spanned almost 20 years now. "As a musician, you're constantly in touch with your audience, and in Australia as much as any place in the world - maybe more - your fans are passionate," he said. "I think you're basically communicating with people on a weekly basis, not just in five or 10 years time, but even the idea that you're writing your autobiography and going through those years - just going through them, putting them down in print, is a marvellous experience." Garrett is releasing his memoirs in August 2011 09e8f5149f

What's New in the Nomad PIM?

Nomad PIM is a personal information manager for Windows that is designed to be used by people who need a versatile tool for organizing their life and work. It is a cross-platform application with support for Windows, Linux, Macintosh and UNIX. Applications like to be treated with respect and the interface for Nomad PIM certainly does that. It is both powerful and easy to navigate. Users are guided through the different categories using the familiar Windows style. The default categories contain the most important information, such as contacts, schedule, notes and finances. All of them can be expanded or collapsed at the click of a button. The result of this approach is a very flexible tool with the minimum number of options, yet without compromising on user-friendliness. Basic features For a more serious agenda, Nomad PIM offers basic options, such as "Auto-renaming", "Auto-saving" and "Organize by category". Users have the option of adding additional folders, making them available for organizing data. The program works in real-time with a wide range of application such as documents, spreadsheets, e-mails, tasks and more. PIM can handle non-textual data, including pictures, graphs and maps. Adding annotations is just as easy as creating a new entry.
